FRANTIC

What are we trying to hack today?

The trouble of being an active citizen in society.

Citizens participating in the society only by voting and paying taxes is a tremendous waste of skills and possibilities.

Supply

(citizens' will to participate, resources and skills)

Disconnect

Demand

(increasing governmental, grassroot, third sector etc. needs)

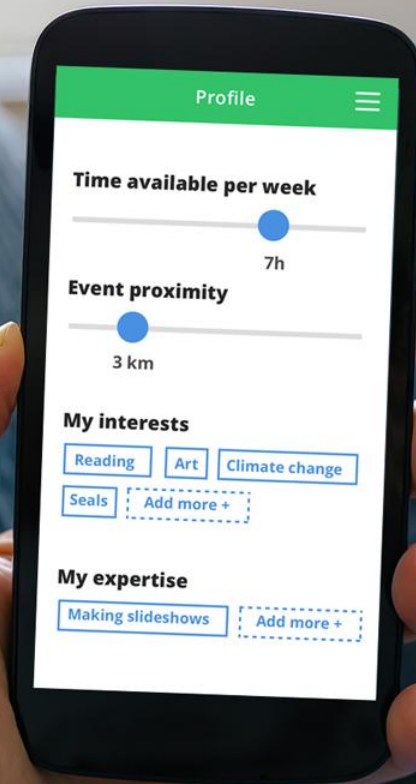

Problem: too many digital participation platforms to choose from.

And not one that would easily match individual skills and needs.

PARTI

participation tool for citizens

What do you want to do and how much time do you have per week?

Select from personal weekly activation suggestions (aggregated and new).

Create your own events and break down tasks for easy participation.

How is this different from other platforms?

One stop shop - connected to other platforms

Low entry barrier, always personal

Opt-in, tasks matching to individual skills

Tasks broken into small, actionable microtasks

What did we do today?

We had some early ideas before starting today.

Today we sketched out the service concept, mockups and the story.

Thank you!
